

Reciprocal Agreement between Genova Technologies (Genova) and The ESCO Group (ESCO) for Providing Emergency Office Space and Services.

Purpose: The purpose of this document is to define the reciprocal agreement between Genova and ESCO for providing limited office space and services in case of emergency caused by disaster. An emergency would be defined as loss of main office facilities along with voice and IT resources. Types of disasters may include but are not limited to: fire, tornado, utilities interruption (gas, water, and electricity), flood, explosion, and other acts of nature.

It is understood that:

1. The Main telephone number may be relocated to relocation site.
2. A limited number of telephones and telephone lines may be provided for use.
3. Office space for 15 people may be provided. This could be a conference room, cubes or offices.
4. A limited amount of space for setting up server class computer systems will be provided.
5. Access to the Local Area Network for data processing will be provided.
6. Access to Internet connectivity will be provided.
7. All costs associated with relocation would be the responsibility of the company relocating.
8. Relocation would be a short term (less than one month) solution while the affected company looks for long term office space.
9. Both parties will agree to confidentiality of data, clients, and business practices.
10. Each company will ensure that all items to be used in these plans will be maintained and kept in good working order.
11. This agreement can only be amended or terminated with at least 30 days written notice unless otherwise mutually agreed.
12. There will be no limit on the number of times the service can be used by either party, providing that adequate cause is shown.
13. The non-relocating company will endeavor to have its own office facilities available at the earliest opportunity.
14. The agreement will run for 3 years at a time, to be renewable if both parties agree.
